

CELEBRATED 25TH
YEAR AS PASTOR

Silver Anniversary of Pastorate of Father C. J. Conrad in Seymour Observed Sunday Evening.

BANQUET AND RECEPTION GIVEN

Successful Entertainment Arranged by the Knights of Columbus and the Ladies' Auxiliary.

In celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the pastorate of Father C. J. Conrad of the St. Ambrose Catholic church, in this city, a reception and banquet in his honor was given at the society hall Sunday evening at 7:30 by the members of the Knights of Columbus and the Ladies' Auxiliary of that order. The affair was a complete surprise to Father Conrad and he had no knowledge that any plans for a public celebration were under consideration until the committee arrived at his residence to accompany him to the hall. Father Conrad did not know that his congregation was aware of the silver anniversary and at the morning service made the simple announcement that he had served as pastor twenty-five years and that the event would be quietly observed by himself and congregation.

There were over four hundred people present at the reception and banquet, and the large attendance evidenced the harmony between the pastor and the church and also showed the high esteem in which Father Conrad is held by the members of his congregation. Besides the members of the church the various professions in the city were represented and in the addresses which were given only the highest respect was shown for the pastor who has served his congregation for so many years.

During the pastorate of Father Conrad in this city, a debt of $7,000 has been completely lifted and many improvements have been made upon the church property. A new residence for the pastor has been built, new windows have been placed in the church, the main building has been redecorated, a large pipe organ installed, the church property fenced, new high altars and two side altars constructed, new cement walks built and many other improvements have been made. The church is now free from any indebtedness whatever and there is a neat sum in cash in the treasury. The relations of Father Conrad with his congregation have been most harmonious and his pastorate here has been highly pleasing to himself and to his people. In appreciation of his services an elegant sterling silver smoking set and a gold headed cane were presented to him Sunday evening at the reception.

Before the banquet was served, Victor Fettig, as toast master, introduced the Rev. John Schueth, of Four Corners, who stated in well chosen remarks the purpose of the reception and presented the gifts to Father Conrad. The invocation was then pronounced by Father Conrad. The banquet was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Mayor Allen Swope was introduced by the toast master and he made the opening address. He spoke of the harmonious relationship of the pastor and his congregation and paid a tribute to Father Conrad as a citizen. He said that his long pastorate at the St. Ambrose church was proof of his popularity and that there were few citizens in Seymour who were more public spirited than Father Conrad. He is always willing to assist in any movement which meant for the betterment of the city and congratulated the church on having such a man as him as its leader.

Rev. G. L. F. Widerin, R. D., was introduced and spoke upon the subject of "The Jubilarian." Father Widerin was a college chum and has been a very close friend of Father Conrad for many years. In a short history of Father Conrad's life, he said that he was born in Nashville, Tenn. in 1855. He attended the schools of Madison and North Madison and later received his college training at the Bardonia College. He also attended a seminary at Indianapolis. Upon completion of his college course Father Conrad was assigned to several parishes in Warrick county, and while pastor there built a church at Boonville in 1878 which was completely free from indebtedness. He was held in the highest esteem by those congregations and one of the churches was named in his honor. In 1887 he was transferred to the St. Ambrose church in this city and has served his congregation continually since that year. Father Widerin spoke of Father Conrad's career here and said that he was very popular among the clergy of his church.

The Rev. James B. Delaney, of Columbus, a personal friend of Father Conrad, spoke upon the subject of "The Jubilarian's Influence as a Citizen." The speaker said that the Mother Church had found from long experience that the best results could be obtained by keeping the priest at one church for a long period of time. He said that the average person does not realize the influence of a priest in a city, as his work is done quietly and without publicity. He visits the sick, hears the trials and hardships of his members and is a guiding influence for good in the community. His regulations, the speaker said, are enforced not by law but by appealing to the conscience and the honor of the members. The non-Catholic world judges the church by the priest, he declared. The speaker said that from his observations Father Conrad's influence in this community was large and this was shown by the large reception given him and the short time in which it was arranged, as it had been first suggested Tuesday.

FAILS TO RECEIVE HIS CERTIFICATE

S. H. Amick Registered at Columbus
In May But Could Not Obtain the Necessary Papers.

MAY BRING CASE INTO COURT

Certificate is Issued to Cleveland Young, Although is it Alleged Conditions were the Same.

S. H. Amick, superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company here, whose vote was challenged in the recent election because he could not produce the necessary registration removal certificate, has made some investigation of the matter during the past few days and as a result may bring the case into court. Mr. Amick is a republican and formerly lived at Columbus where he registered in the third precinct of the Third ward at the May session of the registration board. He probably would have paid but little attention to the refusal to grant him the removal certificate had not Cleveland Young, who registered at Columbus at the same time, received his certificate a few days before the election. Mr. Young is a democrat and here Mr. Amick believes is the solution to the case. He will find out a few more particulars regarding the refusal and challenge and if his present intentions are carried out he will very likely make it interesting for somebody up in Bartholomew county.

Mr. Amick moved to Seymour nineteen weeks ago. After he registered in his precinct at Columbus he was transferred by his company to this city and registered here at the Seymour session of the registration board. At the October session of the registration he went to Columbus and requested Philip Sater, county auditor, to issue to him a removal certificate, but the auditor informed Mr. Amick that his registration here was illegal and that as the books had been taken away from his office he could not give him the certificate. Mr. Amick then went to the registration board of his precinct in Columbus and after stating his case was given a note by the inspector, S. M. Glick, stating that his registration number at that place was 122 and also giving the date of registration.

Mr. Amick made several attempts to secure the removal certificate from the county auditor of Bartholomew county but was unsuccessful. When he appeared at the polls here on election day he stated the facts of his case and his vote was challenged. One member of the board, however, was in favor of permitting Mr. Amick to vote, as he said that he was aware that he had been here long enough and was entitled to cast his ballot here.

Mr. Amick came to Seymour and was accompanied by Cleveland Young who is agent for the Prudential Company here. Mr. Young registered at Columbus at the May session and came to Seymour at the same time as did Mr. Amick. He also asked for the removal certificate for Mr. Young which was likewise refused. A few days before the election, however, Mr. Young received his removal certificate and had no trouble in casting his vote.

Mr. Amick declares that he has some evidence which indicates that his case was discussed by the democratic committee at Columbus. He said that a personal friend from Elizabethtown met him in Columbus a few days before the election and asked him if he was going to have any trouble in casting his vote. Several other men had told Mr. Amick that under all probability he could not vote here.

The case has been presented to several attorneys at Seymour and Columbus and it would not be surprising if some action were taken.

HUNTING SEASON

Many Nimrods Started Out This Morning in Quest of Quail.

The quail season opened Sunday, November 10th, and this morning quite a number of hunters shouldered their guns and started out across the fields. It was reported that some of the hunters were so anxious to get into the game that they started Sunday, and in several parts of the county many shots were heard during the day. Of course they ran the risk of coming across the game commissioners, as it is unlawful to hunt on Sunday.

From all reports the quail are unusually scarce this year and in many places very few of them have been seen. It is said that during the severe winter last year hundreds of the birds were frozen to death. Practically all of the farmers have their land posted, as they do not care to have the birds killed. A number of the farmers have given the quail on their farms the best protection as they believe them to be a benefit in destroying bugs and other pests.

BICKNELL MAYOR ARRESTED.

Shortage in Public Funds May Reach
More Than $1,000.

George B. Fleming, mayor of Bicknell, Knox County, has been arrested upon the charge of embezzlement. The affidavit was filed against him by three members of the council, and it is said his shortage may reach more than $1,000. It was reported that he was making arrangements to leave the town when he was placed under arrest.

He has tendered his resignation and when arraigned pleaded not guilty. His bond was fixed at $500 which was arranged. Reports say that Fleming has been leading a high life since his election and it is supposed that his income was not sufficient to meet his expenditures. He was recently arrested upon the charge of intoxication, but developments proved that there were no grounds for the arrest. He was popular in Bicknell and his arrest has caused considerable surprise.

THIRTY-FOUR WERE KILLED IN WRECK

More Than Fifty Others Were Injured in a Bad Collision on The Y. &
M. Ry. in Louisiana.

SPECIAL CARRIED HUNDREDS

Many of the Victims Were So Badly
Mangled They Could Not be Identified at Depot.

New Orleans, November 11.—Thirty persons were killed and more than fifty were injured in a wreck on the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley railroad early today, when a freight train crashed into an excursion passenger train bound from New Orleans to Woodville, Miss.

The wreck occurred near Montz, La., about twenty-seven miles north of New Orleans. A train carrying many of the injured and a number of the dead, arrived in New Orleans at 8:15. The more seriously injured were placed in the Charity hospital.

The excursion train left New Orleans at 11 o'clock last night, carrying several hundred people who had spent Sunday in New Orleans. It slowed down on approaching a sharp curve near Montz soon after midnight, and the freight train crashed into the rear coaches. Many of the victims were so badly mangled as to make identification impossible.

The scene at the union station when the relief train bearing the dead and injured arrived in New Orleans was one of confusion. Practically every ambulance in the city had been summoned to take the injured to hospitals and police patrol wagons were used to move many of the dead to undertaking establishments.

The rear coach of the excursion train was demolished. Practically every occupant of this car was either killed or seriously injured. One of the badly wounded passengers said two women and several small children in the rear coach were killed.

WRECK AT UNDERWOOD

Pennsylvania Trains Delayed by Smashup This Morning.

Northbound passenger and freight trains on the Pennsylvania line were delayed several hours today on account of a wreck near Underwood. A freight train was switching and two box cars ran into an engine. The cars were damaged and it required several hours to remove the wreckage. A similar wreck occurred near this place a short time ago. The north bound passenger train due here about ten o'clock did not arrive until this afternoon.

Mrs. Louise Pottschmidt Dead.

Mrs. Louise Pottschmidt died of heart's disease at 4:30 o'clock this morning at the home of Fred Schepman near Jonesville. She was born at West Holland, Germany, July 20, 1848 making her age sixty-four years, three months and twenty-one days. She is survived by two sons and one daughter. The funeral services will be conducted at 9 o'clock from the residence and at 1 o'clock from the German Lutheran church Wednesday.

Merit Will Tell.

A half century ago in a Massachusetts town Rice & Hutchins commenced in a small way to make shoes, good shoes, good shoes only. They put their name on them and stood back of them. The people bought and found they got better service than they had been getting—Result constant patronage. Presently they had to enlarge their factory in order to turn out more shoes for which they had found a demand, this demand increased until today they operate eight large factories making shoes for every member of the family. The people are so used to being cheated that when they find an honest man they make him rich. Rice & Hutchins became rich and the business they founded is of the greatest in history.

BURNED BY POWDER

Three Brownstown Boys Met With Accident Saturday night.

Three small boys were painfully burned about the faces Saturday night at Brownstown during the jollification. Byron, the six year old son of Dr. and Mrs. P. A. Zaring was the most seriously burned. Chester, aged four, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Holman and Paris, aged seven, son of Mrs. Lillie Nicholson, were also injured.

During the celebration there was a display of fireworks and three boys found some Roman candles which had failed to explode. They broke them in two and dropped a match into the powder. Instantly the powder exploded and they were badly burned about the faces.

The burns received by the Zaring child were the most seriously and his eyes were swollen shut today. After the accident he remarked to his father that people should be more careful not to permit "such dangerous things to be around where little boys could get hurt."

START ON LONG TRIP.

Columbus Men Launch Motor Boat
For New Orleans.

Clessie Cummins and Brainard McCoy, of Columbus, are on their way to New Orleans in a motor boat. They started from Louisville Friday, and after reaching New Orleans will ship their craft to the east coast of Florida where they will spend the winter. Both men are experienced with gasoline motors, Mr. Cummins having been tester for an Indianapolis automobile company for several years.

It was Mr. Cummins who piloted the traction automobile from Columbus to Seymour about a year ago. The machine belonged to William Irwin and was equipped with wheels for the iron rails. The machine attracted considerable attention while here.

JOLLIFICATION HELD

Brownstown Democrats Rejoice Over Election Victory.

The democrats at Brownstown are overfilled with joy as the result of the recent election and Saturday night gave vent to their enthusiasm with a jollification. Hundreds of people were out on the streets around the court house and with tin horns and fireworks showed that they were happy over the result. It is said that the celebration was one of the best of its kind ever held at that place.

The crowd formed in line of march and paraded around the court house several times giving cheers for Wilson and shouting for democracy in general. A good display of fireworks was shown during the evening. This was the first time in twenty years the democrats could hold a jubilee over a national election and from the noise and racket it appeared that they made up for lost time.

TAKE FIRE ARMS FROM THE TURKS

People of Constantinople Are Being Disarmed.

A STRONG HAND FOR ORDER

Fearing the Possibility of a Massacre Following Further Defeat of Sultan's Arms, Turkish Government Is Reported to Be Collecting Side Arms in City—Attempt to Calm the Storm Which It Is Feared Will Break.

London, Nov. 11.—There is no development in the general international situation. The Austrian press continues to be, for the most part, very pessimistic over the possibility of a general European conflagration. The Russian newspapers are warmly denouncing the attitude of Austria and reports persist that Russia is determined to support Serbia's claims for a port on the Adriatic sea. A correspondent at Vienna talks of Berlin putting the brake on Austria.

Malta, Nov. 11.—There is an unconfirmed rumor here that the British third-class cruiser Barhan struck a Turkish mine. There are no details, and it is not known what happened to the vessel or whether any lives were lost.

London, Nov. 11.—Realizing what may happen in Constantinople if Nazim Pasha cannot hold the lines, the Turkish government has thrust out a strong hand for order. Orders came Sunday for the speedy disarmament of the populace. Trusted troops are going about among the people taking firearms, knives and daggers from them. These are being stored at the war office.

The minister of the interior has issued a frank proclamation in an attempt to calm the storm which so many fear will break out in the city if the army is again thrown back. He says there is yet hope for the Turks at Tchataldja. He warns the populace to stick to their daily business, and promises quick punishment for offenders.

From the British colony comes a signed statement discrediting the reports of massacres at Constantinople and saying that in view of the circumstances everything is quiet there.

From the front, where Nazim Pasha still is locked with the Bulgars in his struggle to hold the Tchataldja line of defense, there is a rumor that cholera has broken out among the Ottoman fighters.

Through north Albania the combined Montenegrin and Serbian armies are marching in the general direction of Neutari. A part of this army is moving toward Durazzo from Alessio. The advance of this army is being closely watched in Austria, for Durazzo is on the Adriatic and the Serbs are treading ground that the Austrians have warned the world against.

Important Strategic Move.

It is reported that the Bulgars are marching toward Gallipoli, where the waters of the Dardanelles meet the sea of Marmora. If this is true the Bulgarians evidently intend to attempt the capture of the forts along the straits. The Greek fleet will in the event of the success of the Bulgars, be able to steam through the Dardanelles up to the very shadows of the mosques of the capital.

The Sheikh-ul-Islam, head of the hierarchy in Turkey, has issued an appeal for a holy war in a manifesto addressed to the Ulemas and Hodikas. Kiamil Pasha, the Turkish grand vizier, has informed the foreign ambassadors in Constantinople that he will maintain order there until the end. If, however, the Turkish capital should be occupied by the invaders, the grand vizier declared that he could not be answerable for what the exasperation of the population might lead to. Anything that might happen then would be on the conscience of Europe, he said.

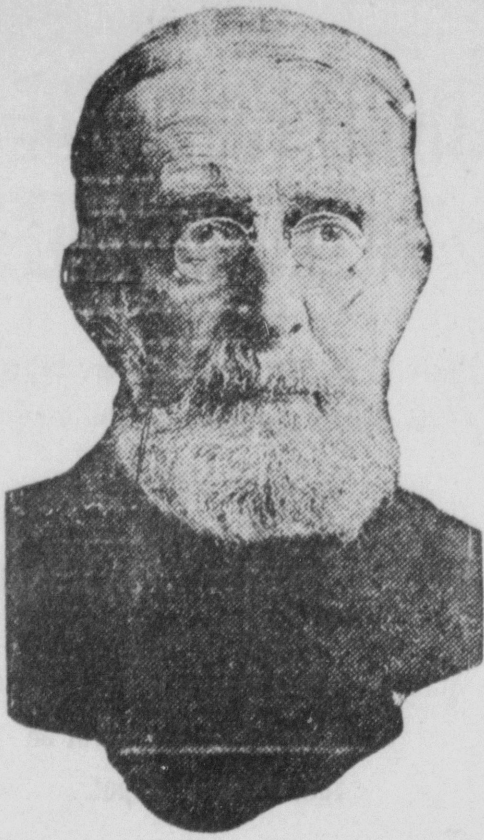

It is announced in diplomatic circles in Vienna that Russia has intimated to Bulgaria that it does not object to the entry of the Bulgarian army into Constantinople if the troops are to remain there only temporarily. The entry of the Bulgarians into the Turkish capital is uncertain, however, as news has reached them that the Turks are preparing to blow up the mosque of St. Sophia before the Bulgarians reach the city. Czar Ferdinand has received acceptances from King Peter of Serbia, King George of Greece, and King Nicholas of Montenegro, to accompany him at the head of an allied force in a solemn entry into Constantinople and attend a mass to be celebrated at St. Sophia, once a Christian church, now a Mohammedan mosque and soon to be, Ferdinand has given his word, a Christian church again.

Engineer Killed.

Paris, Ky., Nov. 11.—James Lemon, engineer, of Covington, Ky., was killed, James Hanley, fireman, of Cynthia, Ky., was probably fatally injured, and another trainman was badly hurt when a Louisville & Nashville passenger train ran into an open switch near here. The engine was overturned but the passenger coaches remained on the rails.

ANDREW D. WHITE

Cofounder of Who Was Honored by Students.

Three thousand students, trustees and members of the faculty of Cornell university at Ithaca, N. Y., stood bareheaded in the soaking rain before the steps of Goldwin Smith hall to do honor to Dr. Andrew D. White, cofounder with Ezra Cornell and first president of the university, on the occasion of his eightieth birthday. The venerable scholar and statesman himself stood with uncovered head while "The Alma Mater" was played on the university chimes.

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF MANN ACT QUESTIONED

Jack Johnson's Case Going to Supreme Court.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—The scene of the next legal battle in the case of Pugilist Jack Johnson, locked up in the Cook county jail in default of $30,000 bonds, on charges of violating the Mann act by trafficking in women, will be the United States supreme court in Washington.

Following the refusal of Federal Judge Carpenter to issue a writ of habeas corpus, Attorney Benjamin Bachrach, counsel for the negro, announced he would appeal to the supreme court and left for Washington to present a petition. The contention will be set up that the Mann act is unconstitutional in that it deals with a crime over which states alone have jurisdiction.

Meantime Johnson probably will remain in his cell. He was placed in a cage with James Brown, a negro cook charged with murder. The fighter's incarceration followed his vain effort to obtain a place in the hospital ward by feigning illness. A physician examined Johnson and thus diagnosed his case:

"His only trouble is cold feet."

CAUSED A PANIC

Twenty-Four-Foot Snake Escapes From a Traveling Show.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Nov. 11.—A boaconstrictor, twenty-four feet long and with a head the size of a bushel basket, escaped from its cage in a wild west show here. The snake, with its head raised nearly six feet above the ground and hissing like a locomotive letting off steam, started through the show lot. A negro was picked up and thrown several feet against a fence and two of his ribs were broken. After a chase of nearly an hour the manager of the show shot and killed the snake. The reptile weighed 252 pounds and was one foot thick.

Havana Police Kill the "Worst Negro in Cuba" Sunday Afternoon.

Havana, Nov. 11.—Colonel Isidro Acea, who is generally known as the "worst negro in Cuba," the man whom President Gomez pardoned while he was serving a sentence of ninety-eight years in jail, and appointed him an agent of the secret service, was shot dead Sunday afternoon by the police.

The police have been after Acea since the election riots on the Prado, during which Acea shot and killed a lieutenant of the rurales.

Probable Suicide Pact.

Indianapolis, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Emma White, about forty-five years old, and Miss Della White, about twenty-five years old, swallowed poison in the emergency dormitory of the Young Women's Christian association. The elder woman died in the ambulance on the way to the hospital and the daughter died a few hours later. The police say the women evidently had entered into the suicide pact before they went to the association. The women came here from Gosport Saturday.

Facing Big Responsibility.

New York, Nov. 11.—William Vincent Astor will be twenty-one years of age on Friday. On that day the Astor estate will pass into his hands and he will be the youngest man in the world to have in his possession such a fortune. The estate includes property in New York and elsewhere; yachts, famous jewels, paintings and sculptures.

TIRED OF LIVING FAR FROM HOME

Ambassador Bryce Resigns Diplomatic Post.

WANTS TO BE RELIEVED AT ONCE

Desirous of Spending Closing Years of His Life in His Own Country, Old Diplomat Who Since 1907 Has Been One of the Most Popular Figures in Washington Official Life, Sends His Resignation to Foreign Office.

London, Nov. 11.—It is said that Great Britain proposes to send over as James Bryce's successor Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, who is at present the envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Great Britain to Sweden. He was secretary of the British embassy at Washington while Lord Pauncefote was the ambassador.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Great Britain's ambassador to the United States since 1907, James Bryce, has resigned. It was learned that in sending his resignation to the British foreign office he asked to be relieved as soon as possible. Ambassador Bryce has asked to be relieved merely because he has become tired of being absent from his own country and desires to spend the closing years of his life there. The ambassador called at the White House Saturday and had a long hour's talk with President Taft. It is assumed that he notified the president at that interview informally of his intention.

Ambassador Bryce's resignation comes also before any settlement has been brought about of the differences between the United States and Great Britain in regard to the Panama canal tolls. Mr. Bryce denied that there was any dissatisfaction on the part of the British government with his conduct of the Panama canal tolls case. In this connection it was recalled that reports were in circulation before Ambassador Bryce sailed to Australia last spring that he would not return to Washington.

Ambassador Bryce has been the most popular of Great Britain's ambassadors to this country. It has been said of Mr. Bryce that he not only told a great many thousands of Americans lots of things they never knew about themselves, but unfolded to Englishmen for the first time the real American character, and more than any other individual now living, had contributed to develop the good feeling existing between the two countries.

Everyone who knows anything about Mr. Bryce thinks of him first as the author of "The American Commonwealth" and "The Holy Roman Empire." But really Mr. Bryce is more than a scholar. He is an all-around man, and his departure from the country will leave a vacancy on the list of popular after dinner speakers that it will be hard to fill.

Personally the British ambassador had been unassuming, genial, and a delightful conversationalist. He has been especially fond of athletics, and the figure of James Bryce with his white hair and white beard, plodding energetically over the highways outside of Washington has come to be a familiar sight here.

ONE WAY TO STOP WAR

Labor Strike Urged as a Means to This End.

London, Nov. 11.—Tom Mann, the labor leader who served time in jail for a speech he made some time ago advising soldiers not to obey orders when it came down to shooting strikers, made a sensational speech at a syndicalist meeting in London Sunday night. He moved a resolution denouncing international wars as calamitous to workmen and said the only war which would merit their attention was a class war. The resolution affirmed that if Great Britain entered into any war the workmen would resort to a general strike to prevent supplies from going forward to the army and navy. This resolution was carried by acclamation amid tremendous applause.

Mann, in introducing the resolution, said he was prepared to act as a rebel in the event of war and was prepared to incite others to rebellion and mutiny.

JAMES BRYCE

British Ambassador to United States Resigns.

KAISER WILL RESENT INTERFERENCE OF U. S.

His Proposed Oil Monopoly May Cause Trouble.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Fast assuming serious proportions is the situation growing out of the German government's determination to drive the Standard Oil company from the fatherland. Matters have gone far enough now to indicate positively that the United States stands ready to make a vigorous protest against the proposed action of the German government if the slightest ground can be found under our existing treaty or the authority conferred by the maximum and minimum clause of the Payne-Aldrich law.

At the same time it is now apparent that Germany will resent any diplomatic representations on the part of the United States and will contend that the proposed establishment of an oil monopoly by the government is merely a matter of regulating international affairs and does not justify any interference by an outside government.

Information that has come to Washington has led to the definite conclusion that if the monopoly in illuminating oil is carried through successfully by the German interests it will be followed by the establishment of similar monopolies in gasoline and lubricating oils.

The immediate effect of the establishing of the German monopoly will be a reduction of the consumption of American oil of about 20 per cent, and this will be still further decreased in the future.

Flowered satin cut in two pieces and with two deep scallops across the top of each section was selected for this charming bag. Plain satin to match the predominant shade in the flowers was used for the lining. A casing was made for the narrow satin ribbon, which served to draw the mouth of the bag together and gave the four scallops the appearance of being a big glowing flower. A ribbon ruching was used to trim the outlines of the bag. A spray of ribbon flowers was knotted at one side of the bag. This makes a pretty bag to carry to the theater and for holding the opera glasses.

Brocade work bags also are most fascinating and are quite fashionable. Magnificent bits of fabric may be used in this fashion, and if the pieces are too small to form the entire bag they are used with the satin or silk.

There are an infinite number of ways in which they may be adapted in this manner, and even the smallest pieces are available for the decoration of the bag.

If there is enough of the brocade it is sometimes used in a deep band with the silk or satin shirred on the lower or upper part of the bag. If the pieces are smaller the brocade is made into medallions and set into the sides. These medallions may be bordered with gold lace or gold braid or with fine shirrings of satin. Bags are safe things to present to a woman friend, for now, when they should match her costume and are so generally worn, she is scarcely likely to have too many.

AMUSING TOKENS.

Character Brooms For the College Boy or Girl.

If in doubt what to give to the college boy or girl you will amuse and please by dressing a whisk broom in any of the quaint styles suggested here.

Separate covers may be made for the whisk brooms, or these decorations may be applied directly to the handles.

One whisk is dressed to represent a plantation mammy. A colored doll's head is glued to the handle or to some foundation that will slip over the handle. Then a dress of gayly flowered fabric is made, the waist being filled out with cotton, so that the owner may use it for a pincushion if he wishes. A gay handkerchief is made for the neck, and another tiny one is knotted, bandana style, over the head. A little white apron with pockets is put on over the dress, and the sleeves of the gown, stuffed with cotton, are thrust into the pockets and tacked there so that the absence of hands on the figure will not be noticed.

Another doll's head is dressed to represent a French maid and fitted to the whisk in the same way.

For the friend who is fond of outdoor sports the whisk representing a dog will be acceptable. If you cannot get an artificial dog's head make one of cotton fannel or velvet and tint with water color paints. The cap and coat should be of bright red cloth with brass buttons.

A holder for the whisk broom may also be made thus: A thin piece of board—the cut down lid of a cigar box will do—should be covered with linen, on which a little embroidery has been worked. Then cover a strip of buckram or cardboard with linen decorated with embroidery. Fasten it over the whisk with thumb tacks and attach bows of ribbon on each side. A ring to which ribbon is added will finish the acceptable gift.

A Christmas envelope of lavender linen filled with dried lavender flowers to perfume household linen will please the housekeeper.

THE HAIR OF YOUTH

"Rich, glossy, luxuriant luscious hair of youth."

Why should you not keep it so—continue to have it—plenty of soft youthful-looking hair, to dress in the many styles most becoming to you—that keep you looking young, attractive—that please you and your admirers too.

Don't let the grey hairs in—they'll make you look old—lose your charm and freshness. Besides others notice them at once and comment on them too.

Endurance of Migrating Birds.

The vigor and endurance that birds display upon the wing are astonishing. Nearly all the migratory species of Europe must cross the Mediterranean without resting. The little bluebird pays an annual visit to the Bermudas, 600 miles from the continent, and Wilson estimated its very moderate flight at more than a mile a minute. Remarkable stories are told of the long flights of tame falcons, one going 1,300 miles in a single day. Jewel mentions carrier pigeons that flew from Rouen to Ghent, 150 miles, in an hour and a half, and a certain warbler must wing its way from Egypt to the Baltic, 1,200 miles, in one night.

Don't bear unnecessary burdens. Burdens of a bad back are heavy. Get rid of them.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for bad kidneys. For lame, weak and aching backs. Local endorsement proves their worth.

A. P. Williams, 217 S. Broadway, Seymour, Ind., says: "I suffered intensely from troubles caused by my kidneys. I tried every remedy I heard of until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. This soon restored my kidneys to a normal condition and improved my health."

The above statement was given April 16, 1910, and during a personal interview on June 25, 1912, Mr. Williams said: "I have had no serious trouble from my kidneys since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me. I still use this remedy whenever I feel in need of a kidney tonic and I get good results."

A Storm From Above the Clouds.

The view of a stormcloud from above is one of the most interesting sights ever beheld by mortal man. A storm viewed from above the clouds has the appearance of ebullition. The upper surface of the cloud is bulged upward and outward and has the resemblance of a vast sea of boiling, upheaving snow. Immediately above the stormcloud the air is not so cold as it is in the clearer atmosphere above or in the cloud itself. The falling of the rain can be distinctly heard, making a noise like a waterfall over a precipice. The thunder heard above a stormcloud is not loud, and the flashes of lightning appear like streaks of intensely white light on the gray colored vapor.

MORE OUT-DOOR LIVING. And Death Rate Will Be Lowered.

Statistics prove that the death rate is very much greater in the winter months than in summer, and that the lack of fresh air is largely responsible for this condition.

If the system becomes rundown, blood thin and watery, circulation poor, no appetite, don't dose with drugs, but take our delicious cod liver and iron tonic Vinol, not a patent medicine, as everything in it is named on every package and if it does not give you a hearty appetite, enrich the blood and create strength, we will return your money; that shows our faith in Vinol.

A case has just come to our attention from Albany, N. Y. Mrs. Hartman from Albany, N. Y. Mrs. H. Hartman says: "I was in a run-down condition for about five years until this spring, when I learned what a good tonic and strengthener Vinol is. It is certainly the best tonic I have ever used and it has done wonders for me."

State Being Aroused Over Coming Convention.

THOUSANDS WILL ATTEND IT

Special Efforts Are Being Made to Create a State-Wide Interest in the Indiana Better Roads Convention to Be Held at State Capital Dec. 11-13.
—American Good Roads Congress
Has Promised to Lend Assistance.

Indianapolis, Nov. 11.—Clarence D.
Boyd, chairman of the invitation and reception committee for the Indiana better roads convention, to be held here Dec. 11, 12 and 13, will visit Indiana cities this week in an effort to arouse interest in the convention. Mr.
Boyd expects to issue more than 5,000 invitations to public officials and prominent citizens in all parts of Indiana.
County auditors, county boards of commissioners, county surveyors and mayors of cities will each be asked to appoint ten delegates. A special effort also will be made to have each member of the legislature attend the convention.

The convention probably will not indorse any particular bill on good roads legislation, but it is hoped to develop an outcropping and a crystallization of the sentiment for a better roads law in Indiana. The program committee will make an effort to obtain speakers of nation-wide prominence in addition to those that have been obtained. The American Good Roads congress has promised to lend assistance in making the convention a success. The exhibit committee has obtained a large number of exhibits.
The good roads exhibit of the United States government and that of Purdue university will prove of especial interest.

Estimates made by Mr. Boyd and other members of the joint committee are that 3,000 to 5,000 persons will attend.

DRASTIC RESOLUTION

Action Seeking Governor's Removal
From Text Book Board Tabled.

Indianapolis, Nov. 11.—An attempt to adopt a resolution asking that Governor Marshall be removed from the state text book board because of an-tagonism among Indiana school superintendents to his program of a one-book course in geography in the public schools, came near being successful at the meeting of the City and Town Superintendents' association.

The resolution was presented by C.
C. Coleman, superintendent of the Brazil schools, and was tabled only by a close vote. A report of the association committee showed that 148 superintendents in the state did not regard the one-book course satisfactory, while twenty-nine were satisfied with it.

B. F. Moore, superintendent of the Muncie schools, was elected president of the association. The other officers are: C. J. Walits, Terre Haute, vice president; L. E. Kelley, Montpelier, secretary; H. G. Woody, Greencastle, treasurer.

Preliminary drafts of the recommendations of the industrial education committee were distributed among the superintendents. They point out the gradual change taking place in industrial conditions which is transforming Indiana from an agricultural to a manufacturing state. The conclusion drawn is that something must be done to check the egress from farm to city.

The committee found, among other things, that specialization in industry has broken down in large part the apprenticeship system by which young men were formerly educated for trades. The schools, the commission believes, must supplement the shop and the two must co-operate to prepare the worker.

Shown to Be Victim of Clique.

Anderson, Ind., Nov. 11.—"Not guilty" was the verdict rendered by a jury in the circuit court in the case in which Lytle Bair, marshal of Sum-mitville, was charged with assault and battery on Lee Wilbank of that town.
Several witnesses testified that the town had been in much better condition since Bair had been marshal than before, and showed that he was the victim of a clique, who wanted to have the officer removed.

Cells Special Grand Jury.

Greenfield, Ind., Nov. 11.—A special session of the grand jury has been called by Judge Mason of the Hancock circuit court, to investigate the recent murder of Dr. Almon A. Stuart at Fortville. Guy Stuart, son of the murdered man, who is charged with the crime, still refuses to talk.

Decapitated by Engine.

Marion, Ind., Nov. 11.—William T.
Harvey, yardmaster of the Clover Leaf railroad, in this city, was killed when an automobile struck him and threw him under a switch engine that decapitated him and ground his body to pieces.

Governor-Elect's Private Secretary.
Lebanon, Ind., Nov. 11.—Governor-elect Samuel M. Ralston has chosen B. B. Johnson of Richmond, an old newspaper man, for his private secretary. Mr. Johnson is sixty years old.

CLEMENT A. GRISCOM

Prominent Shipping Man Dead
at His Home in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—Clement A.
Griscom, president of the International Navigation company and chairman of the board of directors of the International Mercantile Maritime company, died suddenly at his home here Sunday night of congestion of the brain. He was seventy-two years old.
His wife, his three sons, Lloyd C., Clement A., Rodman E., and his two daughters were at the bedside at the time of his death.

PEOPLE'S PROSPERITY WAS NEVER GREATER

Big Increases in Savings
Banks Statements.

Washington, Nov. 11.—In a report just issued by Comptroller of the Currency Murray is found a good index of the prosperity of the country.
The report contains revised figures showing the aggregate deposits in the savings banks of the country and the total number of depositors on June 14, 1912.

In the last year, so the statement shows, there has been an increase of $239,234,924 in the savings banks deposits. In the same period the number of depositors has increased by 215,657 and the average account on June 14, 1912, was $14.63 greater than the average in June, 1911. These big increases have been recorded with only thirty-eight more savings banks reporting than were on the rolls in 1911.

The average per capita in the United States is now $46.53 as compared with $44.82 in 1911.

ALL ONE WAY

Democrats Will Control Both Houses of Congress.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The positive announcement of the success of Harry Lane, the Democratic candidate for the senate in Oregon, assures Democratic control of the upper house of congress and places both branches of the national legislature and the presidency in its hands for the first time in eighteen years. The addition of Oregon to the Democratic list gives that party forty-nine senators, or a majority of two.

In addition to the election of successors to Democratic senators now sitting, Democrats will displace Republican senators from Oregon, New Jersey, Kansas, Colorado, Montana, Delaware and Nevada, and will fill the vacancy in Colorado with a man of their choosing.

The contests in Illinois, where two senators are to be chosen, and in Tennessee and Michigan, remain to be decided. The Democrats make positive claims concerning some of these states but whatever the result in any or all of them, Democratic control of the senate is assured and the Democrats will be able to shape legislation if harmony prevails among them.

WHAT A GROUCH!

Texans Remove Picture of President
Taft From Schoolbooks.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 11.—The state text book board has ordered the publishers of the geography just adopted for use in the public schools of Texas to remove from that book the picture of President Taft and substitute therefor the picture of Woodrow Wilson. Members of the board also urged the removal of the picture of Abraham Lincoln from the school history, but the proposition was so vigorously opposed by Governor Colquitt that it was abandoned. The governor informed the text book board, of which he was chairman, that rather than have Lincoln's picture eliminated from the history he would resign from the government.

Milwaukee, Nov. 11.—When the trial of John Schrank is called, which will probably be this week, according to present plans, Judge A. C. Backus will be on the bench. It will not be necessary for Colonel Roosevelt to be in Milwaukee for the trial.

Accepted the Apology.
An Irishman was going along the road when an angry bull rushed at him and tossed him over a fence.
The Irishman, recovering from his fall, upon looking up saw the bull pawing and tearing up the ground, as is the custom of the animal when irritated, whereupon he smiled at the animal and said:
"If it was not for your bowing and scraping and your humble apologies, you brute, faix I should think that you'd thrown me over the fence on purpose."—London Answers.

The Cricket on the Hearth.
The cricket on the hearth is still a welcome guest in many English households, for the cricket is believed to bring good luck to a house, while his departure is a certain harbinger of evil tidings. It is unlucky to kill a cricket. A Lancashire correspondent of the London Notes and Queries records a local superstition "that crickets are lucky about a house and will do no harm to those who use them well, but that they eat holes in the worsted stockings of such members of the family as kill them." The writer adds that he was assured of this "on

No Smuggling!
Diligence in the pursuit of duty is commendable even in a customs officer, but it would seem that even the logical Gallie mind might have found a reason to suspend the rules in the following circumstances:

An English steamer was wrecked on the French coast, and the survivors were coming ashore, some in tow of powerful swimmers, others clinging to planks and barrels. Those nearest land were at last heartened by the sight of an approaching small boat. As it bore down on the head swimmers a figure in uniform rose in the bow.

manded a stern voice.—Exchange.

Greeks' Worship of Lightning.
The Greeks were so much afraid of lightning that they worshiped it. They endeavored to avert its malignant influence by hissing and whistling at it.
In places which had suffered by it altars were erected and oblations made to avert the anger of the gods, after which no one dared to touch or approach them.

A Nose Tax.

A "nose tax" was in the ninth century exacted by the Danes from the householders in Ireland. It was secured not because it was levied on noses, but from the fact that a failure to pay was punished by slitting the nose from tip to eyebrow. It was continued during thirteen years, when the householders, objecting to this treatment of their nasal ornaments, rose in rebellion, massacred all the Danes in Ireland and put an end to the nose slitting.

THE SAME TREND.

As the figures from other states are received, it is more and more apparent that Wilson's popular vote will be far short of the vote for Bryan four years ago and that his great majority in the electoral college will be due not to any strong popular sentiment in favor of his candidacy and of the Democratic party, but to the unfortunate division in the Republican party. It is equally apparent that the wise thing for Republicans to do is to get together for the next campaign on a basis that is mutually agreeable. It is evident that there can be no unity of action under the leadership of men who have been the Republican candidates any more than there can be under the leadership of men who have been the Progressive candidates in this campaign. The strife between the factions has been too bitter for either one to concede leadership to the men who have led the other faction.

Fortunately the party is not limited to these few men for a choice, but within the party are scores of men who can lead the party to success in the future, men who have not aroused the antagonism of the opposing factions, but men who would be acceptable as leaders to everyone who has the interest of the Republican party and Republican principles at heart.

Out of the present confusing conditions will doubtless come a readjustment, which will be satisfactory to the contending factions, for in no other way will there be hope for victory in the campaign two years and four years from this date.

The latest figures as to the complexion of the next Congress gives the House of Representatives, Democrats 292, Republicans 131, Progressives 12. In the Senate; Democrats 51, Republicans 45.

CELEBRATED 25TH YEAR AS PASTOR

ville, delivered a toast upon the subject of "Secret Societies." He said that the Knights of Columbus was a brotherhood where any member could receive assistance. All believed in the same ritual and worked in harmony, he said. He congratulated Father Conrad upon his anniversary and also complimented the K. of C. members and the Ladies' Auxiliary upon their work in making the reception a success.

Judge Joseph H. Shea spoke upon the subject of "Seymour Twenty-five Years Ago and Today." He pointed out the improvements which have been made in the last quarter of a century and how Seymour had grown from a small town to the best city in Southern Indiana. There is less prejudice against Catholicism here than in many other places and that this condition was due largely to the work of the present pastor. He said that it was incumbent upon a priest to be a good citizen and that Father Conrad was so recognized here. The church, the speaker declared, expected all its members to do their duty as citizens.

Father Conrad was the last speaker and expressed his appreciation of the reception. He said it had been a day of reminiscences and he had recalled the many changes which had taken place during his pastorate here. He said he was proud to be a citizen of Seymour, and had always tried to promote the welfare of the church and the city. He declared that he had endeavored to do his duty towards his members and hoped that the present harmonious conditions would exist as long as he was the pastor of the St. Ambrose church.

B. & O. S-W. Issues Circulars Regarding Empty Gasoline Barrels.

Believing that the majority of people do not fully appreciate the danger of handling "empty" gasoline barrels the B. & O. S-W. has issued circulars urging that more care be exercised in draining the containers, so as to prevent explosions.

The circular reads as follows: Attention has been called to the storage and handling of empty gasoline barrels as a distinct hazard and one that might lead to serious results if not properly safeguarded.

We quote below from an article from the "Scientific American" and would draw your attention to the fact that every precaution should be used where such receptacles are handled.

"Many persons have always had the wrong idea regarding the dangers from gasoline. They have taken the greatest precaution with the full barrels and have given scant attention to the partially filled and empty ones, in fact, few dealers and users have ever given any thought to the care of empty gasoline barrels.

"That this is wrong is shown by a recent explosion of an 'empty' gasoline barrel. This barrel 'went up' while standing in the hot sun on the platform of a freight station. It was a fifty-gallon barrel made of heavy iron. The heads were of a single sheet, slightly crowned and set on a protection rolled on the inside of the cylindrical barrel sheet. A solid welded ring was placed against and around the head of the end of the sheet and was rolled over the ring and tightly crimped. In the exploded barrel the head was bulged like a grocer's scoop, the ring torn apart and the crimp of the sheet pulled out straight.

"This explosion made a very loud report and the pieces were blown a great distance. Fortunately no one was injured, though some damage was done to other equipment about the barrel. By 'empty' gasoline barrels is meant those that have been unloaded by dealers or garages, both public and private. They are barrels rolled out to be returned to the refineries for refilling. These barrels are a source of danger and should receive greater care. The cause of the explosion of these barrels is the excessive pressure of the gasoline vapor generated when standing in the hot sun. A little oil is liable to be left in them and if the vent plugs are screwed in tightly there is danger of explosion. Drain the barrels thoroughly and have the vents opened; also store the barrels in a cool and shady place."

More Steel Rails.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company is about to place contracts for steel rails, amounting, it is understood, to between 50,000 and 60,000 tons. The eastern rail, as customarily, will be purchased from the Maryland Steel Company and some from the Bethlehem Steel Company, the balance being distributed to the Cambria Steel Company and the United States Steel Company plants at Pittsburgh and Gary.

A Nice Distinction.
 In "Things I Can Tell" Lord Ross more gives this gem: The first time he dined with the late Consuelo Duchess of Manchester he confused Portman square with Portland place and drove to the wrong house. Interrogating the butler at 45 Portland place, he said, "D'ye think it could be Portland street?" "He eyed me with the critical, comprehensive look of a butler who reads his Morning Post and said coldly, 'No, sir, certainly not—not if she's a real duchess.'"

Woodstock Meetings.

The meetings at Woodstock church conducted by Revs. Houghton & Rowland are full of interest. There was a good attendance Sunday night. After a spirited song service conducted by Mr. Houghton in which the congregation joined very heartily, Mr. Rowland preached from II Cor. 5:17 on the subject of "What it Takes to Make a Christian." In the discourse he emphasized the fact that, church membership, rites, ceremonies, and an outward show of good works were not the essentials but a regeneration of the inner man brought about by the operation of the Holy Spirit. Services will continue each evening this week at 7:30 p. m. There will be special music at each service. All are invited.

Revival.

The meetings at the Nazarene church started off well. The attendance was large last night, many turned away who could not get seats.

The evangelist has proven himself to be a great preacher. We are fearing that our church will not be large enough to accommodate all who expect to attend these meetings. Several requests were made for prayer last night and yesterday. The children's revival will begin this afternoon. At four o'clock the children meet to sing, pray and praise God. The children must be saved if we preserve our nation. Send your children to the children's revival at 4 p. m. each evening. Come and hear this man of God rightly divide the Gospel. Each service is growing better. One man reclaimed in the people's meeting yesterday afternoon. Services tonight at 7:30. Come and join our choir. Everybody sings in our choir who can sing. You are a member if you sing. Come early and get a good seat.

"IDEAS" NOT ENOUGH

Employer Likely to Be Satisfied
Only When Tangible Results Are Forthcoming.

DREAMER OF LITTLE VALUE

Object Lesson in Case Recorded Here
—Bookkeeper Had Many Plans
But in No Case Had He Made an Effort to Carry Them Out.

Jamison, the third bookkeeper, approached the desk of his employer and stood there hesitatingly.

"I came in to find out if I couldn't get a little raise," he began, when the opportunity came. "I've been working here—"

The employer raised a hand.

"Jamison," he said, "I have been intending to raise your salary for some time—and I have been holding off in the hope that you would deserve a better raise than the one I am about to give you. Now, sit down. I want to have a little talk with you."

Jamison's face lighted at the ease with which he had won. "Thank you," he said, as he seated himself. "I'm glad to know that I've been doing good work and—"

"You're the worst disappointment I have had in this office in the last ten years," the employer cut in sharply. "I am giving you your raise simply because you are a disappointment. Now let me say what I started out to say."

"When you came here a year ago I thought I had found a prize. Remember the day that I stopped by your desk over there and asked you how you were getting along? You answered me with alertness, and almost swept me off my feet with the flood of ideas that you were going to put into execution. You will remember that I told you to go ahead and put your ideas into execution—whether they won or not. I want a man to come to me with ideas. I'm willing to lose a little money experimenting on him."

Jamison attempted to say something, but the employer went on:

"Three weeks later I was again by your desk. The day I had left you I had prophesied to myself within a month that you would be managing the whole office instead of doing book-keeping. But three weeks of that time had gone by and I had not seen any results that would justify me in sitting up nights to think what a great manager you were. Not one of those ideas had shown any working. You had simply told me of them and then forgotten them."

"That day we talked together again. You had an entire new set of dreams of things you are going to do. I waited a month, but nothing turned up. Two months later I remember we chatted together a few moments. You were the possessor of a new set of plans which nobody but yourself could carry out. Well, I waited for you to do some carrying, but nothing occurred. And that, Jamison, is why you are still in the position you had when you began with this firm—and it is also why I call you my greatest disappointment. You're fast in the head and slow on your feet. I suppose you have another batch of hunches cooked up for me right this minute, their only trouble being that you're the man who must carry them out, and you will get tired before you begin. Isn't that true?"

"Well, I've got some ideas all right," Jamison said. "Now, for instance—"

The employer stopped him.

"I've got a better idea than any of yours," he said. "And that is for you to go and carry out some of your plans first; then tell me about them afterward."

"Yes, sir," said Jamison, meekly.

Joy in Effort.

In ancient Greece the victors at the contests of various sorts won great honor. These contests were called games, but the men who won in them did not win through play, but only by strenuous preparation, through real and often prolonged work. This preparation required patience and persistence that there might be a constant advance in strength and skill.

Testimonies to the effort that the liveliest exercise of strength and skill gives the greatest of known joy are very numerous. In the Century magazine there is a sonnet written to accompany a bas-relief by A. Tait McKenzie, with the title "The Joy of Effort." The picture is of three hurdlers clearing the bar. The poem tells of their eagerness, their impetuosity, their joy in fleetness. The last two lines, a couplet, read, "For men 'tis not enough to be alive; the noblest joy of being is to strive."

Work for the Secretary.

The secretaries of great men usually turn out to be somebody in the end, and the quality they must have the most of is tact. The big men and women themselves have no time to smooth things over—they are busy ruffling things up. And so it is the secretary who must assume the suave, placating manner; it is the secretary who must learn how to tie up all the loose ends that the big man leaves flying after a business deal; it is the secretary who must devote herself to the people that the big man thinks worth cultivating.

Having made a little foothold for herself by demonstrating that she can manage this end of his work, the big man will enlarge that foothold.

HALF LOVE ONLY HINDERS AMBITION

"Does love help or hinder an ambitious man?"

Jeanette asked me that question after telling me that Jimmie had come home in a rather depressed state of mind, because Tom Jenkins had confided to him that since his marriage to Daisy he had been unable to pursue the ambition of his life—to become a successful stock broker.

It seems Daisy is jealous of Tom's business. She complains whenever business takes him away from her for an evening or keeps him downtown late, and rather than have a scene when he reaches home, Tom tells prospective customers that it is impossible for him to see them after 4 o'clock, or to call upon them in the evening. So dear little Jeanette is worried for fear Jimmie will think his love for him a hindrance to his ambition.

"Jeanette, dear," I said, "you have no cause to worry, even if Jimmie is grumpy. It depends largely upon the love, and the lover whether love will be a help or hindrance in life.

"Just because some grouchy old codger has said that 'love slays ambition' is no reason to believe it, and close observation shows it to be a pretty poor ambition that ever suffers extinction."

"But Cousin Daisy wants Tom to take a position in a bank, where he will have regular hours, and she can always look for him to be home shortly after 3 in the afternoon. Couldn't he be ambitious in a bank as well as selling stocks and bonds?"

"Surely he may, my dear," I answered. "Love may transform the goal aspired to. It may even change a man's aims; but the man who is truly ambitious to make a name for himself, like Jimmie, will assuredly be more ambitious, not less, because his successes will bring happiness to you, whom he loves, as well as to himself."

"Then why should Tom not be satisfied to do as Daisy wishes?"

"The fault, my dear Jeanette, lies with Daisy, not with Tom's love or her love. It is always so when the so-called 'love' hampers rather than helps a man to rise in the world. It is not 'love,' dear child, but selfishness and pure simple. Selfishness and jealousy can wreck any man's ambitions if allowed to interfere with them."

"Do you think Daisy is selfish and jealous of Tom's ambition? Isn't it because she loves him so dearly that makes her want him with her every minute he can be there?"

"Jeanette, you love Jimmie, do you not?"

"Why, of course, cousin, I—"

"That's what I thought. Well, would you put your own social pleasures before Jimmie's work?"

"No."

"Would you be angry if he were detained a little late at the office, especially if you had planned an early dinner so you could go out in the evening?"

"N-no—no. I should be sure Jimmie would get home as early as he possibly could under such circumstances."

"Are you interested in your husband's business?"

"Of course I am—you know that. He always talks things over with me when he has any interesting news or problems to decide."

"Very well, then. That is as it should be. You need have no fear, and neither need Jimmie, that your love will ever hinder him in his advancement. It is only the self-centered, foolish, selfish woman who will in any way interfere with her husband's ambition. Hers is not 'love,' but rather selfish greed for all her husband's time and all of his money, too, forgetting that to make the money necessary to satisfy her wants he must spend many hours outside those prescribed by banking houses as 'business hours.'

"Remember, my dear child, that if Daisy loved Tom more truly his desires and ambitions would become so wholly hers that she would naturally be a help to him.

"It is only the half lovers and the self-lovers that ever hinder a husband's ambitions. Now run along home and tell Jimmie what I have said to you and see if he doesn't agree with me."

Cotton Duck for Motor Tires.

One million yards of high grade duck, to be made from sea island and Egyptian cotton, has recently been sold by a Georgia cotton mill to a manufacturer of automobile tires.

The quality of this material is of the highest grade, used only in the larger tires, the lower grade of goods being available for the smaller tires. One million yards of cotton duck, one yard wide, is a pretty big order to go from one mill to one tire manufacturer.

It illustrates, however, the ever broadening market for cotton and the reason why a big cotton crop has been so promptly absorbed. Every year sees new uses for the south's cotton. Not only is it being used in the manufacture of tires, it is likewise used in the manufacture of automobile tops, and the wider the use of automobiles the greater will be the demand for cotton.—Manufacturers' Record.

Deaths Caused by Snakes.

The danger from snake bites in tropical countries can hardly be exaggerated. In Brazil alone, 20,000 persons are annually bitten by snakes, and over one-fourth of the bites have so far proved fatal.

WHALE DYING OUT

Fear the Extinction of Species
Through Reckless Waste.

Board of Agriculture and Fisheries Issues Report Warning Against the Consequences of Excessive Hunting in Northern Waters.

Washington.—Danger of the total extinction of the whale through "over-fishing" is dealt with in the thirteenth annual report on fisheries, issued by the board of agriculture and fisheries.

It is unquestionable, says the report, that in the case of a slow-growing and slow-producing animal like the whale, although, owing to its wide range, it will probably never be absolutely exterminated, excessive hunting speedsily results in a very marked depletion of the stock.

The practical extinction of the Esque and Greenland whale fisheries has abundantly proved this. It must be remembered, too, that this result was brought about by means of the open and hand harpoon—methods which are now obsolete.

The Greenland whale was a comparatively sluggish and timid animal, whose capture by the method referred to presented little difficulty, whereas the porpoises and other species were not only too swift, but too dangerous to be attacked in the same manner as the "right" whale.

With the introduction, however, of the harpoon with explosive shell, discharged from a cannon mounted in the bows of a steamer, the conditions were entirely changed, and the species formerly immune from attack could now be hunted with impunity.

The result of this revolution in the conditions under which the fishing could be prosecuted is seen in the enormous dimensions which the industry has attained at the present day.

It is estimated that in 1911 between 19,000 and 20,000 whales were captured in the southern hemisphere alone (South Georgia, South Shetland, South America, South Africa), to which has to be added the catch in North America, Japan, Faroe, Iceland, Spitzbergen and Greenland, and these figures will probably be greatly exceeded in 1912, as numerous new companies have been formed to exploit Alaskan, Australasian and Sandwich island waters.

This wholesale destruction must inevitably tell its tale within a few years, and, as a matter of fact, in Newfoundland and Iceland fears are already entertained that the fishing is on the decline.

It would not, therefore, be a matter for surprise if, within a few years, it may be found necessary to establish something in the nature of international control, and the precedent of the Behring seal fishery shows how vexed a question whaling may ultimately become.

SEA LION OUTBARKS DOGS

Its Endurance Wears Out All the Quadrupeds in Bench Show in California.

Sausalito, Cal.—One lone sea lion, with a strong pair of lungs and a disposition bordering on acute melancholia, nearly broke up the dog show at the Marion County Kennel club by developing a bark that was such a challenge and inspiration to the four-legged canines that they had to respond.

Starting early in the morning, the big seal, which was exhibited only as a curiosity of the deep, and not because of his vocal possibilities, howled all day, and the dogs, big and little, howled with him. Braced against the railings in front of their kennels they threw their souls into a chorus that would have intimidated an ordinary sal. But this one was homesick.

When nightfall came he was still at it, in good voice and going 40 howls to the minute, but he was alone in the field. The poodle and the terriers, and even the long-winded hounds, had barked themselves to a whisper.

WAITER SUES FOR SLANDER

Demands $20,000 From a Wealthy Man, Who, He Claims, Falsely Accused Him of Theft.

New York.—S. J. A. McOnie, a wealthy Scotchman and a relative of the prime minister of England, now in this country on a business trip, has been served with papers in a $20,000 slander suit, brought by a waiter at his hotel. The waiter alleged that McOnie one day showed him a collection of valuable jewelry and personal articles, and subsequently accused him before the hotel management of stealing a gold cigarette case worth $1,500. It is alleged that McOnie admitted later that he had merely mislaid it.

"Headache" Pay Stopped.

Washington.—The new provision in the army appropriation bill providing that no officer or enlisted man shall receive pay for absence from duty caused by disease resulting from his own intemperate use of drugs or alcoholic liquors, or other misconduct is now in effect.

Called Her "Too Fat."

New York.—Because her husband persisted in calling her "too fat" Mrs. Lee Marcussen in suing him for divorce.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE

THE THOUSANDTH OF AN INCH.

Arthur Brisbane tells how the turning of a screw one-thousandth of an inch made hundreds of millions of dollars.

It was the turning of the screw that delicate fraction of an inch that made possible the telephone.

Before Professor Bell perfected the telephone Reis, a German school-master, had contrived a phone over which he could whistle and convey certain noises, but it would not transmit human speech.

Reis believed the two electrodes should be close together without touching. Bell's idea was that the electrodes should barely touch each other. After years of experimenting one day he turned the screw the thousandth part of an inch and—

Lo, the telephone!

Editor Brisbane draws the conclusion that many persons fail of success by the thousandth of an inch. They fail to connect.

Continuing his sermonette, one might add the exhortation concerning the needs of perseverance. Though he had missed by the thousandth of an inch, Bell kept on trying. The final fortunate twist of the wrist brought success and fame.

He succeeded because he kept on. As the homely lines of our old school-books put it:

If at first you don't succeed,
Try, try again.

Many a man has missed success because he got tired and quit trying.

The patient Edison kept on trying substance after substance—hundreds of them—until he found the right sort of wire for his incandescent bulb.

But he kept trying.

It required years of trying on the part of Oliver to make the first chilled steel plowshare, and McCormack grew gray headed in perfecting his grain cutting device.

They kept on.

Darwin built up his theory of evolution bit by bit and only missed demonstration by a fraction—the missing link.

But he kept on!

For, mind you, whether you succeed or fail by a thousandth of an inch, the thing worth while is to keep at it, and—

Die trying!

It is not for all of us to command success, but it is for all of us to make the effort. And so, whatever the outcome may be, pray God that hope die not in your heart, and—

Keep on trying!

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

TURKEY DRESSING.

THE dressing for the Thanksgiving turkey is an important matter. If tried of the plain bread stuffing you will find many others whose flavor and richness appeal to jaded appetites.

Among them are the following:

Asparagus Dressing.—Take a large can of asparagus tips, an equal quantity of boiled chopped celery, two large cupfuls grated rye bread, two table spoonfuls melted butter, one chopped hard boiled egg, one small minced Bermuda onion. Drain the asparagus tips carefully and mix the chopped celery with them, then add the other ingredients in the order mentioned, adding a dash of white pepper, a dash of horseradish and salt to taste. Blend carefully, moistening if too dry with a very little rich milk, and stuff into the turkey before the dressing is quite cold.

A Nut Dressing.

Chestnut Dressing.—Take one quart chestnuts, one cupful cold boiled rice (dry), one teaspoonful peanut butter, two powdered soda crackers, one table spoonful melted butter, one salt spoonful paprika, one-quarter teaspoonful ground cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful salt, a pinch of celery salt. Boil the chestnuts in slightly salted water and after shelling pound to a paste, moistening with a little sweet cream and adding gradually the rice and other ingredients. Mix well and set to cool until it can be formed with the hands. Stuff the turkey about twelve hours before it is to be roasted.

A Timely Flavored Stuffing.

Celery Dressing.—Take two table spoonfuls melted butter, one pint canned mushrooms, one-half cupful chopped celery, one teaspoonful minced parsley. Cut the crust from a loaf of stale bread, moisten slightly in cold milk and crumble with the hands; then stir in the above ingredients in the order named, adding salt and pepper to taste, a pinch of sage and half a scraped onion. Mix thoroughly and just before using dust in a pinch of ground mace.

Giblet Dressing.—Take cooked giblets, chopped fine. Split sixteen common crackers and spread with butter, allowing one-fourth of a table spoonful to each half. Pour over two and three fourths of a cup of stock in which giblets were cooked. When the crackers have taken up stock add chopped giblets and season with salt and pepper.

The Demons of the Swamp

are mosquitoes. As they sting they put deadly malaria germs in the blood. Then follow the icy chills and the fires of fever. The appetite flies and the strength fails; also malaria often paves the way for deadly typhoid. But electric Bitters kill and cast out the malaria germs from the blood; gives you a fine appetite and renews your strength. "After long suffering," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. RHEUMATISM

URIC ACID CAUSES IT—S.S.S. CURES IT

Every variety of Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood; the different forms of the disease depending on whether this uric acid settles in the nerves, muscles or joints. In Sciatica it is the nerves which are attacked, the muscular form shows the muscles to be the seat of trouble, while manifestations of articular Rheumatism are evidence that the joints are being diseased. To cure Rheumatism the uric acid must be removed from the blood; the circulation must be made pure. This cannot be accomplished with external applications; such treatment may furnish temporary relief from the pain, but it does not reach the producing cause. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism of every variety and form because it purifies the blood. It goes down into the circulation, neutralizes the acids and dissolves the irritating deposits which are pressing on the sensitive nerves and tissues, and producing pain. Whether your case of Rheumatism be acute or chronic S. S. S. is the medicine you need; it will cure you and at the same time build up the entire system by its fine vegetable tonic effects. The Root of Evil

CHAPTER X.

At the King's Command.

BIVENS' plan would have gone through without a hitch but for one thing. He had overlooked the fact that the kingdom of Mammon in America has a king and that the present ruler is very much alive. A man of few words, of iron will, of fiery temper, of keen intellect, proud, ambitious, resourceful, bold, successful, a giant in physique and a giant in personality.

It happens that his majesty is an old time Wall street banker, with inherited traditions about banks and the way their funds should be handled. He had long held a pet aversion. The Van Dam Trust company had become an offense to his nostrils. It had built a huge palace far up town and its president had attempted to set up a court of his own. He had gathered about him a following, among them an ex-president of the United States. Gold had poured into the treasury of the great marble palace in a constant stream until its deposits had reached the unprecedented sum of $90,000,000, a sum greater than the royal bank itself could boast.

When the king heard the first rumor of the fact that the Van Dam Trust was backing the schemes of the Allied Bankers in their sensational raid on the market his big nostrils suddenly dilated.

At last he had them just where he wanted them. He signed the death warrant of the bank and handed it to his executioner without a word of comment. And then a most curious thing happened. The king summoned to his presence a little, dark, swarthy man.

When Bivens received this order to appear at court he was dumfounded. He had long worshiped and feared the king with due reverence and always spoke his name with awe. To be actually called into his august presence in such a crisis was an undreamed-of honor. He hastened into the royal presence with beating heart. The sovereign glanced up with quick energy.

"Mr. Bivens, I believe?" The little man bowed low. "I hear that you are about to aid the Van Dam Trust with four millions in cash?"

Bivens smiled with pride. "My secretary will deliver the money to the bank within an hour."

The king suddenly wheeled in his big armchair, raised his eyebrows and fixed the little man with a stare that froze the blood in his veins. When he spoke at length his tones were smooth as velvet.

"If I may give you a suggestion, Mr. Bivens, I would venture to say that the Van Dam Trust company is beyond aid. The larger interests of the nation require the elimination of this institution and its associates."

"I have heard good reports of you, and I wish to save you from the disaster about to befall the gentlemen who have been conducting the present campaign in Wall street. If your secretary will report to me at once with the four millions you have set aside for the Van Dam company I shall be pleased to place your name on my executive council in the big movement we begin today. The other gentlemen whom I have thus honored are now waiting for me in the adjoining room. They represent a banking power that is resistless at the present moment."

"When the Van Dam Trust closes its doors today a temporary panic will follow. We will give the gentlemen who started this excitement a taste of their own medicine, render a service to the nation and incidentally, of course, earn an honest dollar or two for ourselves. I trust I have your hearty support in this program?"

Bivens again bowed low. "My hearty support and my profoundest gratitude."

"I'll expect your secretary with your check for four millions within thirty minutes."

The king waved a friendly gesture of dismissal, and the little dark figure tremblingly withdrew. He had been ordered to stab his associates.

Without a moment's hesitation he gave the cruel orders that sent them hurrying over the precipice.

When the president of the Van Dam Trust company failed to receive the promised millions from Bivens he called his telephone and, receiving no answer, sprang into his automobile and dashed downtown to the little main office.

When the clerk at the door informed him that Mr. Bivens could not be seen by any one, he drove back to the palatial house of his bank, smiled sadly at the mob in front of its huge pillars, ordered its bronze doors closed, walked around the corner to his home, locked himself in his room and blew his brains out.

For a week the panic held the financial world to the grip of death. A dozen banks had closed their doors and a score of men who had long boasted their courage among men had died the death of cowards when put to the test. One of the most curious results of the panic was the revulsion of popular feeling against the daring and honest young officer of the law who had rendered the greatest service to the people wrought by any public servant in a generation. He was hailed as the arch traitor of the people, the man who had used his high office to produce a panic and carve a fortune out of the ruin of millions whose deposits were tied up in banks that might never again open their doors.

Stuart, stung to desperation by their infamous charges, attempted at first to repel them. He stopped at last in disgust and maintained afterward a dignified silence.

From the first day of the run Bivens had laughed in the face of the crowd that besieged the door of his big Broadway bank. He stood on top of the granite steps and shouted in their faces:

"Come on, you dirty cowards! I've got your money inside waiting for you, every dollar of it—100 cents on the dollar!"

The crowd made no reply. They merely moved up in line in stolid silence a little closer to the door. Each day this line had grown longer. Bivens was not worrying. The king had spoken. The folly of these people in their insane efforts to wreck Bivens' bank was making impossible a return to normal business.

Stuart determined to face this crowd and have it out with them. He believed that a bold appeal to their reason would silence his critics and allay their insane fears. He told Bivens of his purpose over the telephone, and the financier protested vigorously:

"Don't do it, Jim, I beg of you," he pleaded. "It will be a waste of breath. Besides, you risk your life."

"I'll be there when the bank opens at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning," was the firm answer.

When Stuart appeared the next morning a roar of rage swept the crowd. Howls, curses, catcalls, hisses, hoots and yells were hurled into his face. It was a new experience in Stuart's life. He flushed red, stood for a moment surveying the mob with growing anger and lifted his hand for silence.

The answer was a storm of hisses. Apparently he hadn't a friend in all the swaying mass of howling maniacs. He drew his heavy brows down over his eyes and the square jaws ground together with sullen determination.

With a sudden impulse he threw his right hand high above his head and his voice boomed over the crowd in a peal of command. The effect was electrical. A painful hush followed.

"Gentlemen!"

He paused and his next words were spoken in intense silence.

"My answer to the extraordinary greeting you have given me this morning is simple. I am not working for your approval. I work for my own approval, because I must in obedience to the call within me. Long ago in my life I gave up ambition and ceased to ask anything for myself. You cannot destroy my career because I cherish none. The scene you are enacting here this morning is a disgrace to humanity. You have surrendered to the unmeaning fear that drives a herd of swine over a precipice. You have, by an act of will, joined in a movement to paralyze

He Hurlled Him Down the Steps.

The motive power of the world—faith! There is but one thing that runs this earth of ours for a single day—faith in one another.

"You are scrambling here for a few dollars in this bank. What can you do with it when you draw it out? There is not enough cash in the world to transact a single day's business. Business is run on credit—faith. The business of a bank is to keep money moving and make it do the world's work. You are attempting to stop the work by the destruction of its faith."

Suddenly a man who had quietly pushed his way through the crowd sprang on the step before the speaker and thrust a revolver into his face.

A cry of horror swept the crowd, as Stuart paused, turned pale and looked steadily down the flashing barrel into the madman's eyes.

"Who started this work of destruction?" the man cried. "You—do you hear me? And I've been commanded by God Almighty to end this trouble by ending you!"

As Stuart held the glittering eyes levelled at him across the blue black barrel he could see the man's nervous and uncertain finger twitching at the trigger. With a sudden panther like spring he leaped across the five feet which separated him from the man who held the revolver. His left hand gripped the weapon and threw it into the air as it was fired, while his right hand closed on the throat of his assailant. With his knee against the man's breast he hurled him down the steps, wrenched the revolver from his hand and with a single blow knocked him into insensibility.

The spell was broken. The mob that hated him saw their chance. A yell of rage swept them, and a dozen men sprang toward him with curses. For a moment he held his own, when suddenly a well directed blow from behind knocked him down. In blind fury he felt the smash of blows on his face and head. A stream of blood was trickling down his forehead and its salty taste penetrated his mouth.

A sudden crash from space seemed to send the world into a mass of flaming splinters and the light faded. He heard the soft rustle of silk and felt the pressure of a woman's lips on his. Surely he must be dead, was the first thought that flashed through his mind. And then from somewhere far away in space came Nan's voice low and tense:

"Come back, Jim, dear. I've something to tell you. You can't die, you shall not die until I've told you!"

He opened his eyes and found Nan bending over him. His hand rested on her soft arm and his head lay pillowed on her bosom.

"Why, Nan, it's you! What's happened? What on earth are you doing here?"

He looked about the room and saw that he was in the inner office of the president of the bank, alone with Bivens' wife. He was lying on the big leather couch.

"I heard that you were going to speak this morning. I wanted to hear you and came. I arrived just as you began and managed to get into the bank. I saw that man try to kill you, Jim, and that crowd of wild beasts trampling you to death. Two detectives pulled you out and dragged you into the bank."

A doctor entered and quickly dressed Stuart's wounds, and turned to Nan.

"He'll be all right in a week or so," Mrs. Bivens, provided he doesn't insist on breaking the run on another bank by the spell of his eloquence. I hope you can persuade him not to try that again."

"I think I'm fully persuaded, doctor," Stuart answered grimly. "I've seen a great fight today."

When the doctor had gone and Nan was left alone with Stuart an embarrassed silence fell between them.

"She was quietly wondering if he were fully unconscious when she was sobbing and saying some very foolish things. Above all, she was wondering whether he knew that she had kissed him."

When her car stopped at South Washington square and Stuart insisted on scrambling out alone, she held his hand tight a moment and spoke with trembling earnestness:

"You will see me now, Jim, and be friends?"

He answered promptly.

"Yes, Nan, I will. The world is never going to be quite the same place for me after today. There was one moment this morning in which I think I lived a thousand years."

A hot flush stole over the woman's beautiful face as she looked steadily into his eyes and quietly asked:

"What moment was that?"

"The moment I looked down that gun barrel, saw the stupid hate in that fool's eyes and felt the throbbing of the insane desire to kill in the people behind him, the people for whom I've been giving my life a joyous sacrifice."

Nan smiled a sigh of relief.

"Oh, I see. Well, you've made me very happy with your promise. I know you will keep your word."

He pressed her hand firmly.

"You are more beautiful than ever, Nan. Yes, I'll keep my word. Goodbye until I call."

And the woman smiled in triumph.

THE RED-HEADED BOY'S BIG BONFIRE

When a young woman has just finished hanging out a perfectly good wash on perilous lines run on pulleys from the back porch of her flat to the telephone pole in the alley, no right-minded person could blame her for losing her temper if a red-headed boy with a wide mouth and the ingenuity of a fiend should start a smudgy bonfire directly below.

The red-headed boy worked in Simms' grocery, one of the stores that occupied the ground floor of the flat building. He was poking the fire as though he enjoyed it when Miss Clancy saw him.

"Say, you, Tommy Herkimer!" Miss Clancy called threateningly. "See what you're doing to my wash!"

Tommy grinned up at her and gave the fire another stirring. Great clouds of smoke and black smudges waivered upward, seeking the chaste whiteness of the Clancy linen.

"Stop it!" Miss Clancy shrieked, shaking one fist in the offender's direction. The fist was small and white, for it was Miss Clancy's mother who had washed the clothes, her pretty daughter's share in the work being the hanging out process. Mrs. Clancy was proud of Sadie's hands just as she was proud of Sadie's crisply curling black hair and blue eyes and the general freshness of her. "Stop it, I say! You're horrid, and if you don't stop it I'll—"

"Yah-h-h!" yelled Tommy, derisively. "I ain't afraid of you, Sadie Clancy! You can't do nothin'!"

Sadie Clancy shot down the one flight of stairs like an angry comet and catapulted toward Tommy. Dropping the broom handle with which he was stirring the fire, Tommy bolted, with Sadie after him. He darted toward the back door of the grocery and swerved just as that door filled with the bulk of young Simms himself. Young Simms being Sadie's devoted worshiper, Tommy recognized that here was no safe haven. Indeed, after a breathless word from Sadie, Simms also joined the chase down the alley.

As he rushed past one of the delivery wagons he caught his foot in the trailing lines and pitched headlong in the dust.

"Pickles and prunes!" young Simms exploded as he staggered up.

"Oh, did you hurt yourself?" Sadie cried, looking around in horror. Right in her course was the water hydrant and, hitting it, she, too, ornamented the alley pavement.

"Don't you know anything worse than that?" she gasped out furiously as Simms picked her up, roaring. "Coffee cakes and buns! Let me get my hands on him!"

Tommy, who had paused interestedly to view the unexpected gymnastics, was doubled up in mirth. He began to run again when his furious pursuers darted toward him. Spying an open door into the basement under Leigh's furniture store, he dashed in and his pursuers followed. Sadie was in the lead. Rounding some crates of dressers, she saw a human object shrunk up close to the last crate. She grabbed it with a shriek of triumph, to which the object responded with a howl. Young Simms, arriving, also grabbed.

"Gotehu!" the object yelled in terrible glee. "Y'will play tag in my basement and carve initials all over the mahogany, will yer? I'll teach you kids a lesson! I've been a-layin' for yeh and now I've got yeh!"

Leigh, the furniture man, as he spoke was shaking Sadie and young Simms, occasionally knocking their heads together for emphasis. Suddenly the size of Simms seemed to confuse him and he jerked his captives into the light of a gas jet.

"Good land!" Leigh gurgled, releasing his hold. He stared at his neighbors whom he had been shaking.

"Why—why—" stammered Leigh, and sat down meekly. Then he gave a sort of groan and scrambled to his feet. He had sat down in a bucket of varnish.

"Oh-h-h-h!" Sadie wept hysterically, clinging to young Simms. He put his arm around her protectingly and jammed it against a nail point that was projecting through one of the uprights in the wall.

"Woo-o-off!" roared Simms, clapping his hand.

Somewhere in the distance of the basement there was a strangled but demoniac laugh that sounded as though emanating from a red-headed boy with a wide mouth.

"Let him go," said young Simms as he put his arm around Sadie again. "Somehow I don't seem to mind him now—do you, Sadie?"

"Let's help Mr. Leigh get that varnish off him," said Sadie with very pink cheeks. She did not move away from the arm. "Anyhow, ma's taken the clothes in by now!"—Chicago Daily News.

They Never Learn.

Draw poker is a fine game, full of skill and science, and the man who knows what to draw to and when to do it is the fellow who gets the money. Harris Dixon, the author, was explaining one day that every man who makes a practice of trying to fill a four-card flush is doomed to bankruptcy.

"There is no use talking," said Dixon. "Drawing to a four-flush is bad business. I knew an old man down in Mississippi who lost three plantations drawing to them. Two of the plantations he lost by drawing and never filling the flush, and he threw away the third by finally making the flush against a full house."—Popular Magazine.

LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEER HAS REMARKABLE EXPERIENCE.

I have been thinking that a word from me would benefit those who may be suffering as I was before I began taking your Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. I am a locomotive engineer, employed on the Tyrone & Clearfield Branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Three years ago I was afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble so bad that I was compelled to lay off duty from my engine and was in the care of two doctors. However their medicine did not benefit me. One day, I noticed your advertisement, to send name and address for a sample bottle of Swamp-Root. At this time my trouble had reached a serious stage. I sent for the sample bottle and in three days received a small bottle of Swamp-Root, which I took according to directions, and by the time I had taken the contents, I could pass water more freely. I was so pleased with my experiment that I sent my wife to the drug store of W. H. Milick, Phillipsburg, Pa., and secured a one-dollar bottle. I continued taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root until I was entirely cured. Now whenever I feel any pain or soreness after being exposed to bad weather or hard work, I take a dose or two of Swamp-Root. I cannot recommend this remedy too highly, especially to brother engineers with their kidneys (more than any other class of men.)

Mr. Wilson was Elected President of the United States.

Well if he was, you won't see as much improvement in your home, as if you were to go look at, and get, what you will find on display in Rucker's Drug Store window. Don't miss seeing this work of Art on display this week only. Christmas is coming and you can't equal our offer. Ask for Mr. Wright, Manager.

KEACH-CLAY.

The Indianapolis Star has an account of the marriage of Benjamin H. Keach, of Brownstown, to Miss Leslie Clay at Chicago. The marriage was a surprise to Mr. Keach's brother, Ray Keach, of this city, who did not know of the ceremony until he read it in the newspaper.

The article is as follows:

A Butler College romance culminated in the marriage of Miss Leslie Clay of Portland, Ore., and Benjamin H. Keach of Brownstown, Ind., in Chicago yesterday. The marriage came as a surprise to the friends of both the bride and groom.

Miss Clay and Mr. Keach became acquainted when the former entered Butler College in the fall of 1910. Mr. Keach at the time was a senior at the institution. It was rumored that they were engaged before the end of the year. The engagement was announced the following fall when Miss Clay returned to school. Her health failed during the winter term of last year and she was compelled to drop her school work. She returned to her parents in Oregon later in the winter. Miss Clay is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Clay of Portland and is a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority. She was popular in society circles of both the college and the city while here.

Mr. Keach is a member of the Sigma Chi Fraternity and during his course at Butler was identified with active college life. He was editor of the Butler Collegian in his senior year, president of his graduating class, and was also a member of the former Butler quartet. Mr. Keach is in the banking business with his father and has a new bank building in course of construction at Markleville, Ind., where the young couple will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Keach were in Indianapolis last evening on their way to their new home and received the congratulations of many of their former classmates and friends.
